

GRAFFITI MENACE RETURNS

Report by Richard Guttridge

A GRAFFITI menace has hit Halesowen with tags sprayed on fences, road signs, street furniture and a phone box.

Pink spray paint has been used to write the tag name 'SODA' across public and private property in Ridgefield Road at Shell Corner. Residents who reported the damage say the graffiti is appearing on an 'almost daily' basis.

It comes a year and a half after a similar spate of graffiti scarred the town. Then the tag 'CNS' was sprayed on walls, garages and vehicles in Spies Lane and Howley Grange Road. That contributed considerably to the £200,000 of taxpayers' money spent by Dudley Council on cleaning the area of graffiti over the past two years.

This week Halesowen's Councillor Karen Shakespeare said she was disappointed to see the graffiti return to the town's streets.

She said: "We had a particularly bad spate right through Halesowen, we even had it just before the Halesowen in Bloom judges came and had to get it all cleaned up. "I thought it had calmed down. I know we have worked very hard to cut down the amount of graffiti that is going up."

Criminal

She criticised those responsible for having no pride in the town.

"They don't care about the area," she said. "All the time and money that has gone into getting into a good condition — this is unwanted. There are no words for people who do this, it's a criminal act."

"I don't know what possesses these people to do it."

She suggested that the only way to stamp out graffiti attacks was for the perpetrators to be caught in the act.

"Obviously the problem is the police catching them," Councillor Shakespeare added.

"But Police catching them in the act is the biggest difficulty."

Shell Corner is not the only part of the borough to be defaced by the scrawlers. Parts of Brierley Hill and Wordsley have also been targeted by graffiti vandals in recent weeks.

Neighbourhood policing teams have said they will be increasing patrols in the area in a bid to put a stop to the problem.

Authorities in Dudley have had to spend big to combat the issue.

In the last 12 months, around £100,000 has been spent on removing graffiti following attacks on shops and properties. That came after £95,000 was paid from council coffers to repair damage between April 2013 and April 2014 — all at a time when the council is facing huge spending cuts.

Action plan to boost mental health service

AN action plan has been drawn up to improve care for people with mental illnesses in the Black Country.

Health chiefs in Dudley and Walsall have drawn up a joint plan of action for how they will work together to improve services.

The scheme is part of the mental health crisis care concordat, which is a national agreement between services and agencies involved in the care and support of people in crisis which sets out how organisations can work together to make sure that people receive urgent mental health care.

Mona Mafouz, clinical lead for mental health at Dudley clinical commissioning group, said: "The concordat sets clear expectations about the standard of crisis care people should be able to expect in Dudley and it is a huge step forward. We must keep up momentum on this and support people who have a mental health problem to move towards recovery."

Matt Bowsher, Dudley Council's boss of adult social care, said: "Our action plan draws together a range of sectors and organisations. We are all committed to positive mental health."

Idea for glass walkway at campus axed

FRESH plans have been lodged for a £3 million performing arts centre at Halesowen College after concerns about the original designs were raised by fire chiefs.

The new complex was due to be connected to other buildings at the Whittingham Road site by a glass walkway, which the college had hoped to use as an exhibition space and break area for students.

But fire officers said as the link way would be the main escape route for the block in an emergency, it would need to be left clear. Revised designs have now been submitted for a stand alone complex after bosses said they would not be able to use the glazed walkway as hoped.

The performing arts centre is the latest stage of a revamp at the site, with £20m being invested in replacing buildings. It will provide teaching rooms and rehearsal space for students on music, drama and dance courses. The college has been struggling to provide enough space for the growing number of students taking performing arts courses. Some currently having to travel off campus to use facilities at Benjamins, a function hall in the town centre.

Little Harvey-Joe is toast of The Cat

The Cat Inn at Enville, run by Dan and Aimee Hicks whose baby son Harvey-Joe is eager to pull a pint, is Staffordshire Pub of the Year

Pub's favourite tot

IT'S not many youngsters who have a special beer brewed in celebration of their first birthday.

But Harvey-Joe Hicks has been honoured in just such a way and the ale, called The Cat's Crawler, has already proved a hit with drinkers.

His parents, Aimee and Dan, run The Cat Inn, in Bridgnorth Road, Enville, and the youngster is a well-known character among customers.

Enville Ales has brewed the 4.5 per cent amber ale to honour Harvey-Joe's first birthday which he will celebrate on April 29.

The beer is exclusive to drinkers at The Cat and will only be available for the rest of the month. And the youngster has been trying his hand at pulling pints of the ale.

The pub has a second reason to celebrate after being crowned the Campaign for Real Ale's South Staffordshire pub of the year for the third year running.

Mrs Hicks said they were still making plans for her son's birthday at the moment.

"It is great Enville Ales has brewed the beer to honour Harvey-Joe's birthday," she said.

"People have already sampled it and it is selling like hot cakes at the moment. It is really popular."

"Everybody at the pub loves Harvey-Joe. He is a well-known little character."

Mrs Hicks, 29, said she and her husband had been running the pub for three years.

DEATH

Inquiry after man is killed on track

A MAN was killed when he was hit by a train in the Black Country. He was struck near Dudley Port station at around 6.15am on Easter Monday.

Trains were suspended after the incident, reported by the driver of a Virgin Trains service, leading to delays for bank holiday travellers. National Express buses and Midland Metro accepted train tickets to help. A British Transport Police spokesman said: "Inquires are ongoing. The matter is not being treated as suspicious. Anyone with information is asked to contact 0800 40 50 40."

COMEDY

Grannies aim to conquer America

DANCING granny sensations The Fizzogs have gone to America after being snapped up by two TV stations.

The unique trio's Dancing Grannies routine will be broadcast on TruTV in Los Angeles and a Canadian television station is screening the Black Country troupe's comedy-drama Black By Day.

The transatlantic breakthrough comes on the back of the Fizzogs going viral on the internet last year when their dance at Stourbridge Carnival attracted 1.6 million hits worldwide.

HOMES

Canalside housing decision pending

PLANS to create a new canalside development in Tivdale will be decided next week.

Developer Cameron Homes Ltd has submitted proposals to build 60 homes on the site of a former refuse tip to the rear of Tipton Road.

The company believes the land is the ideal location for new homes because of nearby transport links and leisure services.

A decision was due to be made by Sandwell Council last month but members decided a site visit was needed first.

Members of the planning committee are now set to make a decision on April 15.

Laptop cops won't do, says ex-chief

Ex-police chief Richard Green

A FORMER Black Country police chief has blasted cuts to forces up and down the country, warning that officers cannot work 'from Costa Coffee with a laptop'.

Richard Green is a retired Chief Superintendent who previously headed policing in Wolverhampton and Brierley Hill. He believes the level of cuts in the region have amounted to a form of 'vandalism' on front-line policing.

Last month it was revealed up to 2,500 West Midlands Police officers and staff are to be axed in the next four years as the force battles to save £120 million.

Bosses have already been forced to cut £126m from the budget and lose 3,000 people from the payroll since 2010.

Mr Green said: "The cuts undermine some of the most serious aspects of policing. If police officers are not in the community they do not learn about things such as vulnerable young people who might be involved in terrorism, or the abuse of young people."

"They are simply not there to receive messages. You cannot police from Costa Coffee with a laptop. You need to be out in the public."

Mr Green was speaking outside Dudley Police Station last week after a visit by Labour's shadow policing minister, Jack Dromey.

He gave his 'personal support' to Ian Austin and Natasha Millward who are standing for Labour in Dudley North and Dudley South.

He also backed the campaign by Mr Austin, defending a slender Labour majority in Dudley North, to save the front desk at Dudley Police Station from closure. "It should be accessibility for all, not just those lucky enough to come across an officer on patrol or those with access to the internet," he added.

£1m chapel restoration project now under way

A LONG-awaited £1million project to restore the landmark grade II listed Lye and Wollescote Chapels has begun.

Scaffolding has gone up around the building which houses identical Anglican and non-conformist chapels.

When restoration work is completed, the venue will be leased to Dudley Council as a register office.

David Trevis-Smith, project organiser for West Midlands Historic Buildings Trust, said: "This marks the next stage of many years of community proposals led by West Midlands Historic Buildings Trust to repair the Grade II listed building and regenerate it to safeguard this Victorian landmark."

Charitable

"Following successful grant applications to the Heritage Lottery Fund and other charitable sources, the project will create a suite of facilities for use by Dudley Council citizenship and registration services."

"Specialist building contractors Croft Building & Conservation will be on site over the coming months, bringing the historic structure back into a state fit for re-use."

The building will have a waiting lobby and two reception areas as well as a wedding ceremony room and an office for staff. It dates back to 1878 and has been closed for the past 20 years.

The project is looking to set up a friends group which will work alongside the existing small group of dedicated volunteers.

Ex-world champ Hugh backs call for crossing

FORMER world champion cyclist Hugh Porter has backed calls to boost safety on a busy dual carriageway in Halesowen outside a club for aspiring athletes.

Campaigners want action to help provide a safe crossing for people visiting Halesowen Athletic and Cycling Club and homes at A456 Manor Way.

Police have already positioned a speed camera and been carrying out regular speed checks on the 40mph stretch of road outside. It follows a fatal motorbike accident on that stretch of road in the summer of 2013.

Mr Porter, who lives in Tettenhall, is well known as the former BBC cycling commentator, a job held for 30 years. He is also patron of the cycling club which has produced such stars as Olympic cyclist Jess Varnish.

The club want a pedestrian crossing across the busy road as many athletes and cyclists end up stepping over barriers in the central reservation.

Stadium

Mr Porter, in his letter to Dudley Council, said: "Access on foot or bicycle into and out of the stadium is severely restricted due to the lack of a pedestrian crossing in Manor Way. Should a pedestrian crossing be installed it would provide significant benefits not only to members of my club but also to local residents, users of public transport and to the pupils of Manor Way Primary School who would be able to take advantage of the superb sports facilities available at the club."

"I had the great honour to be the cycling commentator of behalf of the BBC at the London Olympics when Halesowen Cycling Club member, Jess Varnish, competed and I consider a pedestrian crossing would provide a wonderful legacy for our local sports stars of tomorrow. I would urge the local community, including local business to support this project."

Cycling Club road team manager David Viner is hoping to gain support towards funding the crossing. "We are as a club working with Dudley Council, who are very positive, to improve access into and out of Manor Abbey Stadium, the will be there, funding is the only issue," he said.

Eddie makes a point on election trail

COMEDIAN Eddie Izzard arrived in Halesowen to back Labour on the General Election campaign trail.

The 53-year-old transvestite walked through Halesowen in stiletto heels and delighted passers by as he posed for selfies and urged them to vote on May 7. Eddie backed Labour, the party he has supported since he was a boy, over the row on zero hours contracts.

The party wants to make employers give anyone on a zero hours contract a regular contract after 12 weeks. But it has been accused of hypocrisy by opponents because Labour-run councils, including Dudley, have used them to employ staff in casual roles.

"It's just right wing spin," said Eddie. "Let's get rid of them then no-one will use them. Because the Tories are probably swimming in them. They're bathing in them. Let's just get rid of the things and get it so people can have jobs. It's people on the ground on the lowest incomes who are having the toughest times. In that recession, rich people didn't skip a beat. Zero hours contracts are just not helping people."

Eddie was in town to back Stephanie Peacock, Labour's candidate in the key marginal seat of Halesowen and Rowley Regis. Conservative James Morris is defending a majority of 2,023. Also standing are Dean Perks for UKIP, John Payne for the Greens and Peter Tyzack for the Liberal Democrats.

Rates incentive to open toilets to all

COUNCIL bosses in Dudley have approved a scheme which would allow shoppers to use toilet facilities in pubs, cafes and restaurants without having to make a purchase.

It will run at locations across Dudley borough that have lost public toilets.

Dudley Council is offering businesses in the borough a rates reduction if they allow public access to their loos.

Finance boss Councillor Stuart Turner has approved an amendment to the authority's discretionary rate relief policy. It would see businesses offered a £700 per year rates reduction for taking part.

A number of public toilets across the borough were closed by the authority some years ago as part of cost cutting measures, to save up to £150,000 a year.

Park jobs target of police initiative

POLICE are targeting youths drinking and vandalising King George VI Park in Wordsley.

Neighbourhood officers have been working to establish the new Street Watch project in the town in a bid to curb anti-social behaviour.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Patrols against off-road bikers

POLICE patrols are being increased around a Dudley nature reserve following complaints about off-road bikes.

Residents living near Fens Pool in Brierley Hill have reported the bikes being used during evenings and weekends. Members of the Brockmoor and Pensnett police team have pledged to tackle the issue and have increased patrols. They said: "As the lighter night return, so does the issue of off road bikes."

Those causing a menace on the bikes face having them confiscated.

Driver in court over fatal crash

A MAN has appeared in court charged with causing death by dangerous driving.

Jamie Wharton, aged 29, was behind the wheel of a Nissan Skyline when it careered through a garden wall in St Peter's Road, Netherton, last June. Front seat passenger Timothy Pearson, 23, suffered fatal injuries.

At Dudley magistrates court, Wharton, of Birch Coppice, Quarry Bank, was released on unconditional bail to appear at Wolverhampton Crown Court on June 23 for a plea and case management hearing.

Burglary suspect held in custody

A MAN has charged with carrying out a series of burglaries at homes across Dudley borough.

Scott Pooler, aged 39, and of no fixed address, was arrested outside the Cousins store in the town centre, after the furniture shop reported a lamp had been stolen.

He was charged with seven counts of burglary and one theft and, at Dudley Magistrates Court, was remanded in custody ahead of an appearance at Wolverhampton Crown Court.

Letters in favour of supermarket scheme

MORE than 100 letters in support of a supermarket on the site of a landmark pub in Dudley have been lodged.

Aldi has lodged proposals to demolish The King Arthur, beside the Birmingham New Road, to make way for the store.

The supermarket says its plans for 1,000 sq ft store will create 40 jobs and have a 94-space car park.

Nearby residents have written to Dudley Council in support of the scheme.

Police probe stabbing

A STABBING victim was in a stable condition in hospital after being attacked in broad daylight in Coseley.

The 38-year-old man was stabbed twice in the car park at The Royal Hotel in Castle Street at 4.15pm on Saturday. Police said inquiries were ongoing.

Lecture link to London bombing is condemned

MUSLIM leaders in Dudley have condemned extremism following revelations that terrorists who carried out the London 7/7 bombings visited a radical preacher in Dudley.

A jihadist turned MI5 spy Aimen Dean revealed the lecture took place months before the murders of more than 50 people.

The three men - Mohammad Sidique Khan, Shehzad Tanweer and Germaine Lindsay - were part of the four-man group which carried out the attack in London in July 2005.

Fifty two people were killed and more than 700 were injured when four bombs were detonated on London Underground trains and a double-decker bus in Tavistock Square.

In an interview Mr Dean said in his role as an undercover agent he attend a lecture in the winter of 2003 was given by Anwar al-Awlaki.

It has emerged was involved in planning terrorist operations for the Islamist militant group al-Qaeda.

About 30 to 40 people met in the converted flat on the first floor of a building to hear the lecture.

This week members of Dudley Central Mosque and the Dudley Muslim Association condemned the meeting.

Spokesman Amjid Raza said: "We are disappointed to hear about this but we have never heard anything about this until now."

"This is the first time we have heard about this. We condemn this extremism and we continue to work closely with the whole community."

Date for town hall to reopen

A £55,000 scheme to carry out vital repairs on the ceiling of Dudley Town Hall has been completed and the venue is expected to reopen on April 22.

The hall, in St James's Road, has been forced to close for four months after loose plaster was discovered on the ceiling.

Alongside repairs to the ceiling, work has also taken place to reinforce the balcony ceiling.

Tea dancers will kick off the new entertainment schedule. The hall will also host comedians Ken Dodd on June 20 and Milton Jones on October 2.

Other events include The Good Old Day of Variety, American Superslam Wrestling and a performance by the Soul Survivors.

Ofsted praise for primary school

INSPECTORS have praised Sacred Heart Primary School in Tipton, giving it the second highest rating. Pupils were performing well and Ofsted were impressed with the leadership of the headteacher Melanie Gee.

Just rewards for the unsung heroes

UNSUNG heroes in Dudley who go the extra mile to help others in their community have been honoured.

More than 150 people packed into the Village Hotel, Castlegate, for the Mayor's Civic Awards event. The borough's first citizen Councillor Margaret Aston presented the accolades to individuals and groups.

The Friends of Priory Park and The Green picked up the Mayor's Award after receiving the most votes online. Runners-up were secretary of the Priory Community Association Sally Johnson, secretary of the Worcester and Sherwood Forester Regiment Association Gordon Willetts and Raves Rescue, a charity with rescues abandoned animals.

James Stevens, frontman of band The Empty Can and voice of the Black Country anthem, was presented with the Cedric Hardwicke Award for art, sponsored by Stourbridge College.

Beryl Luckins received the runners-up award for her 40-year devotion to drama. Lila Redfern, who has served as a school governor for nearly 50 years received the Thomas Attwood award for education. Runner-up was Bey Hodi, a teacher at Ridgewood High School, in Stourbridge, for her work organising an annual fact-finding trip for pupils to The Gambia.

Halesowen's Mick Freer was presented with the William Shenstone Award for environment for his work in an ongoing project maintaining and preserving the walled garden at the Leasowes in the town.

The runners-up award went to Don Davies, the driving force behind the Woodsetton Charitable Trust.

The Mike Holder award for business went to Steve Parker, chairman of the Federation of Small Businesses. Ian Caswell, who has run the Arcade Toy Shop, in Dudley, for nearly 40 years, was runner-up.

Jordanne Whitley, paralympian and wheelchair tennis star, won the Duncan Edwards award for sport, ahead of basketball coach Clive Allen.

The Frank Foley award for community spirit went to Jane Ahmed, who set up the Chatback group.

Dream come true as patient meets UB40

'IT has made me feel stronger, like there is something saying to just keep going.'

So says Nicola Moore, a 32-year-old mother-of-two who was told just weeks ago she has terminal cancer.

Last week, after thousands of people rallied online to support her, Nicola, of Wordsley, ticked the main item off her bucket list - meeting her idol, UB40 singer Ali Campbell.

She said: "When that door opened I just froze. Everything was in slow motion."

"Ali has made me feel good in myself now and more like I can try and get on with my illness. He seems a strong person himself and he understands. I've had my wish come true now."

Two months ago Nicola, mother to 12-year-old Chloe and 19-month-old Shyann, was diagnosed with cervical cancer.

After a dose of radiation treatment, just five weeks ago she received the news her cancer was terminal. With the help of Compton Hospice's PR and marketing officer Grace Ruston, Nicola posted her wish to meet UB40 on Facebook last Wednesday afternoon.

By the time reggae legends Ali and Astro walked into her room 24 hours later, the post had been viewed by 2.5 million people, and had been shared on Facebook more than 48,000 times.

Requests

Back in Birmingham for just one day before heading to London to begin rehearsals for a national tour, the timing could not have been more perfect.

Ali said although they had had a few similar requests in the past, Nicola was 'a bit more special'.

"Wednesday night 500 people were interested, then 5,000, then 30,000, then 2.5 million on Thursday morning."

"I have had messages from Mississippi, New Zealand, Australia - 'Are you going to go and see this young lady?'"

"Yeah man, we're on our way."

Astro added: "How can we not go?"

Meeting Nicola had been very humbling, he said. "At the end of the day these are the people who have supported us throughout our careers...these are hardcore fans who have stood by us through thick and thin."

"We were happy that we were in the neighbourhood and we made her wish come true...of all the people and bands in the world she chose us, I feel honoured."

Aware she was in for some sort of surprise,

Nicola Moore meets UB40's Ali Campbell and Astro at Compton Hospice

Nicola had no idea who was going to be visiting. She said: "I have had some poorly days this week but this has just changed it all. I'm so happy, just chuffed. I'm just shocked, I feel like glass."

Describing Ali as 'incredible', Nicola said she had been a fan of the band since she was a child and her mother would play their music.

She said: "He had the walk - that style, that cool walk coming towards me."

"I felt like something was pulling me, it felt like he's coming to me now like God was coming to hold my hand."

"He winked at me as well and gave me a kiss on the cheek and held my hand, I couldn't believe it."

Nicola sang a few lines of 'Rat in the Kitchen' for them, as they chatted about their childhoods and compared tattoos. Ali and Astro pledged to dedicate last Friday's session on Radio 2's Chris Evans' show to Nicola, as well as a song at their Nottingham show tonight (Thursday) which she will be attending as a VIP guest.

Nicola's mother Susan Colman, 52, said it was wonderful seeing her daughter smile. "To see her happy again after what she has been through is tremendous," she said.

"We never thought it would go like this, just posting something on the internet."

Miss Ruston said: "When Nicola first told us about this she was in a lot of pain and she looked quite unwell."

"Seeing her now and showing her all those messages, she just looks so bright and so happy."

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

ONE thing I know from a reliable source is that some charity shops suffer huge losses from shoplifting. Scum does not even begin to describe them.

MY recent item about the woman on Antiques Road-show who bought a necklace from a charity shop for £5 and had it valued at up to £6,000 brings much dark muttering. There is a persistent rumour that charity-shop workers get the pick of the goods. Is it true? Or is it just a tale put about by people who have never given the time and effort to work in such places?

WHILE the rest of the cast in The Ark have the usual Genesis beards and straggly hair, young Kenan (Nico Mirallegro) has an authentic 2015 boy-band haircut. And lo, in those days did Kenan, son of Noah, go forth unto the House of Salon and saith unto the barber therein: "Number four all over, mate, and tapered neck."

IT is a very rare thing for anyone to resign voluntarily from the House of Lords, the best club on London, but for whatever reasons, Lord Ashcroft has. His departure releases one bottom-space in that over-packed citadel of hot air where 800 peers pontificate. In a sane system there would be no more than a couple of hundred. Farewell, Lord Ashcroft. One down, 600 to go.

REMEMBER the shirt I bought on the internet which generated no fewer than six emails from the makers? Make that eight. I've had two sales pitches, including one offering me the chance to "stay wrinkle-free all day." Frankly, that would take more than a shirt.

A READER writes: "I have developed a way of dealing with people who say Jeremy Clarkson should not have been sacked. I call them a lazy * and punch them in the mouth."

Eye is on the future as college unveil campus

A NEW £5 million college campus has officially opened in the Black Country.

Stourbridge College has modernised its main campus at Hagley Road with a stylish new building created for a fresh generation of learners.

The site has centres of excellence for engineering, health and social care and early years.

Guests saw students hard at work in the new science and IT laboratories which are part of the revamped A-level suite. A range of events took place at the opening of the campus, which is part of Birmingham Metropolitan College.

Performing arts students celebrated Stourbridge College through the years and music students provided background entertainment.

Margot James, who is defending her seat in Stourbridge, performed the official opening and unveiled a glass sculpture in the new reception area, created by artist, Allister Malcolm of Broadfield House Art Museum. The piece, called The Vision, is based around the iris of an eye.

Head of Stourbridge College Wendy Stevens said: "Today is the realisation of our ambition to create the very best in teaching and learning facilities in the Black Country."

"Students and staff are absolutely thrilled to have moved into new classrooms with state of the art IT technology and bespoke facilities for engineering, health and social care and early years.

By Andrew Turton

"We now have a real presence in Stourbridge town centre with a fantastic landmark building which is providing a real draw for local students and employers."

"Our aim is to build on the legacy of the college and help more local people realise their dreams," said Miss James.

"It has been really exciting following its progress over the past year and it's an amazing investment for Stourbridge."

"Undoubtedly, the college boosts our local economy by ensuring young people and adults are equipped with the right skills to fill gaps needed by local employers, but I'm especially impressed with their commitment to ensuring people also have the right employability training to get into work."

Babies spring up at city park

Proud parent — golden lion tamarin Pablo at the wildlife park

PLENTY of spring babies are ready to greet visitors to Birmingham — Wildlife Conservation Park.

They include golden lion tamarin twins born to parents Cleo and Pablo and a yellow capuchin monkey born to parents Benji and Comico.

Pied tamarins, Freddie and Boudicca, have also welcomed a new arrival.

Head of Birmingham Wildlife Conservation Park, Les Basford, said: "Although the pied tamarin baby is the oldest of the bunch, pied tamarins are very nervous creatures and his tiny parents — each weighing in at about 600g — are both extremely protective so visitors are unlikely to catch a glimpse."

"However the other three babies are growing in both size and confidence and aren't fazed at all so I'm sure visitors will be able to see them."

The park is open from 10am until 5pm and can be found on Pershore Road, two miles south of the city centre. Under-3s free, £3 for those aged under 16. Adults £5.50.

Service to honour the memory of chairman

A SERVICE will celebrate the life of respected businessman Douglas Graham, chairman of the Claverley Group, parent company of the Express & Star and Shropshire Star.

Mr Graham died after a short illness, aged 85. He belonged to the Wolverhampton family company, one of the most successful in the newspaper and print industry. A service to celebrate his life will take place at St Peter's Collegiate Church in Wolverhampton on Monday, April 13, from 11.30am. In lieu of flowers, donations are asked to be made to Compton Hospice, Severn Hospice and Hope House.

Mr Graham succeeded his father, Malcolm Graham, as chairman of the Claverley Group in 1993 after a career in the business. A keen motor enthusiast, he was a life member of the British Racing Drivers' Club and a game shooting enthusiast. His wife Sara said: "I was jolly lucky to have been married to him for nearly 35 years."

Claverley CEO Phil Inman said: "Mr Graham was a major force in the success of our business. His career, which spanned more than half a century, saw the MNA and its sister companies achieve significant triumphs amid times of fierce competition and constant change."

Action on yobs at shoppers' car park

A NEW crackdown on yobs causing a nuisance in a Stourbridge shopping centre car park is to take place.

Police have applied to use a Public Space Protection Plan (PSPO) to deal with anti-social behaviour plaguing the Ryemarket, which includes skateboarders and BMX riders getting in the way of motorists, sometimes skating dangerously down ramps. Walls have been daubed with graffiti.

The PSPO is a new power under the Anti-Social Behaviour, Crime and Policing Act 2014 which enables councils to deal with problems in public spaces by imposing conditions for the use of that area.

Staff and shoppers have complained about the problems in the car park. Now members of the Wollaston and Stourbridge town police team have pledged to tackle the issue.

Sergeant Andy Holder, who is leading the police team tackling the problem, said: "Due to reports from shoppers and shop staff at the Ryemarket shopping centre of youths acting in an anti-social manner in the multi-storey car park it has been decided to include this as an issue for the team to address."

"We are in the process of potentially applying for a PSPO. We will continue with regular patrols in the area at various times."

Lord Cobham gets go-ahead for £2.5m visitor centre

A £2.5 million visitor centre will be built at Hagley Hall and Park later this year as part of the latest stage of works to reopen the site to the public.

Lord Cobham, who owns the 350-acre estate, says work could start by the summer to create the centre off the A456. Councillors on Bromsgrove District Council have granted planning permission.

Some campaigners including members of the Halesowen Abbey Trust and Hagley Parish Council had objected. Their concerns include fears over the impact on Green Belt land, extra traffic on the busy route and subsequent pollution risks.

The scheme was approved subject to an agreement that proposed rangers' accommodation is for the sole use of estate employees.

Lord Cobham, Christopher Lyttleton, says he is pleased that progress can now be made with the aim of reopening the park - which has been closed for more than three decades - in 2016.

He hopes income from up to 100,000 visitors a year will provide sustainable revenue aimed at helping pay vast costs associated which maintaining the 18th century hall and park. "It is good that we are now at the stage when work can start later on this year," he said.

By Andrew Turton

The visitor centre would be the main entrance and will be built on fields off the A456 opposite the Badgers Sett pub.

New link roads will be built to access the site on the Stourbridge-bound side of the dual carriageway. Outline plans seek to create a car park up to 180 vehicles including coaches.

The centre will incorporate education and history exhibitions showcasing Hagley Hall and Park through the decades including study areas for visiting school children. There will also be a restaurant, gift shop and outdoor seating area alongside a children's play area.

Over recent months the ornate casades, waterfalls and pools have been cleared and rebuilt. Pathways which once led walkers on picturesque routes through the park have also been re-marked and relaid.

106? I don't feel it, says Nell at party

Nell Cook celebrates with Jan Hollyfield, Margaret Aston and Dorothy Clarke MBE

SHE has lived during the reigns of five monarchs and now Nell Cook is celebrating turning a remarkable 106 years of age.

The former factory worker was born in Birmingham but has lived in Halesowen for the past 25 years. She celebrated the milestone in style with a birthday bash with her friends at the Halesowen Over-50s Group, where Miss Cook has been a member of since the 1990s.

More than 30 members turned out to the Zion Christian Centre in Little Cornbow for the party. Mayor of Dudley Councillor Margaret Aston also made an appearance pass on her good wishes.

"I definitely do not feel my age," said Miss Cook. "I never married and that's the way I like it."

Miss Cook had five brothers and sisters, Edith, Amelia, Ethel, Fred and Arthur, but is the last surviving sibling. Dorothy Clarke MBE, chairwoman of the Halesowen Over-50s Group, said: "She is still so well in herself and so sharp, it is incredible."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Devolved powers for city region

BIRMINGHAM is to become the next city to get devolved powers, it has been claimed, in a move that would likely mean councils in the Black Country being granted greater responsibilities too.

Conservative Party grandee Lord Heseltine said it had been agreed by the Government. The move, which has already been made in Greater Manchester, would likely mean councils in the Black Country also being given greater freedom over business rates, transport, planning and health. Former deputy prime minister Lord Heseltine said: "Birmingham is next, that's been agreed."

Council bosses have already agreed to create a combined authority in the region.

Thousands drawn by glass festival

THE International Festival of Glass will return to Stourbridge on May 28.

Thousands of visitors from across the globe will descend on the town for the four-day event.

The festival will also host the British Glass Biennale which features work from 77 artists who have been selected for the prestigious award.

The artists will travel from countries including Costa Rica, South Korea, Israel, Sweden, Germany and Japan.

There will also be entries from those living and working in Stourbridge's Glass Quarter.

IN MY VIEW
with Mark Andrews

Computer ban is a great idea but those names are just a no-no

THE terms 'grounded' and 'balanced' are not terms ones one would normally associate with Hollywood couples, but Helen McCrory and Damien Lewis deserve at least two cheers for their strict rules on bringing up their two children.

Concerned about the way a growing number of children seem to live their life through the internet, Peaky Blinders star McCrory has said that her son, aged eight, and daughter nine, are banned from using the computer on school nights, and are allowed only limited access at weekends.

Instead, the couple are encouraging them to read books, including a thesaurus to help them expand their word power.

And quite right too. There is no reason whatsoever why children aged eight or nine should be spending their time glued to computers. At that age they should be discovering real life, warts and all, not studying some virtual world through an electronic medium. They should be playing football, cricket or netball with their friends, building dens, painting or baking cakes, not locked in their bedrooms with only a screen for company.

One only has to look around us to see how the computer age has produced a generation of isolated, introverted, individuals who fear any social interaction that does not come at the click of a mouse or the press of a touch-screen. Being a teenager is difficult enough, without spending hours on end tapping away at a computer. There will be plenty of time for that when they grow up.

And while the political classes are getting all worked up about children being exposed to online pornography, has no one ever stopped to consider that this would be much less of a problem if we did not encourage children to spend so much time on computers?

However, while McCrory and Lewis deserve credit for ensuring their children will learn about real life as well as virtual reality, I do wonder whether they really helped the cause by saddling them with the monikers Manon and Gulliver.

There's just this nagging suspicion that they would find it easier to relate to their peers if they were called Dave and Julie.

MARKETING, the art of using lengthy and plentiful words to say very little. Take this beauty from a well known Australian brewing corporation: "Radler is Foster's Lager cut with cloudy lemon. Fruity and sharp, it has a distinctive citrus taste, making it a refreshing lager, perfect to enjoy when you're kicking back and want to take things that little bit easier."

Or shandy, as it used to be called in the old days.

Dave on desert trail to fly flag for region

ANDREW TURTON caught up with Blind Dave Heeley before he started on another massive challenge in the Sahara

BLACK Country charity champ Dave Heeley is blazing a trail once more to inspire a generation, as he nears to the end of a gruelling 160-mile run through the Sahara Desert.

Whether it is climbing soaring 590ft high sand dunes, battling sweltering 120F temperatures or tucking into a packet of Black Country pork scratchings to keep his strength up, Dave is once again a superb ambassador for the region.

With his last minute packing –before flying out to Morocco – including his trusty Black Country Flag, Dave has completed weeks of tough training in preparation for the six-day event.

The father-of-three, who is a devoted Baggies fan, has already helped raise almost £20,000 for West Brom's charity The Albion Foundation which supports community projects including disability sport.

The foundation established the Tri-Challenge to bring in vital funds through endurance feats including a charity bike ride and a walk between schools in Sandwell.

And now the final leg of this awe-inspiring challenge will take Dave, aged 57, and his two guides Tony Ellis and Rosemary Rhodes to the desert.

He is being cheered on by his family including wife Deb, who he has been married to for 10 years, and daughters Grace, 24, Georgie-Lee, 13, and 11-year-old Dannie.

Dave is carrying a locket with him contain silver impressions of their fingerprints to help remind him of them more than 1,400 miles away.

After touching down in north Africa, Dave took a five-hour coach journey to the edge of the Sahara.

Around 1,000 competitors from all around

Some of the provisions and equipment runner Blind Dave has taken with him for his trek

Facing the facts of the Sahara

SCORCHING temperatures in the Sahara during the high season can reach up to 120F (49C).

During the Marathon Des Sables a minimum daily intake of 2,000 calories is recommended. Most participants take between 3,000 to 4,000 to compensate for daily losses.

There are snakes in Morocco but competitors rarely glimpse them. Instead they may encounter scorpions and mosquitoes.

Sun hats with neck covers are essential as well as Factor 50 sun block.

Athletes are told to eat a breakfast each day and eat high-energy snacks every 20 to 30 minutes during the race.

At least four litres of water are available to drink every day with checkpoints set up to replenish thirsty athletes.

People carry up to 15kgs of kit including their tent, cooking equipment, food and water during the day.

Each days stage starts from 8am and runners are forced to cope with the high temperatures in the midday sun.

Competitors are only told their route on the first day. One stage will be 50 miles-long.

the world come to take part in the Marathon Des Sables which is celebrating its 30th anniversary this year.

But Dave will be the first ever blind athlete to take on the challenge.

"I'm the first blind bloke and I'm from West Brom," he said. "I get a sense of pride from that and it helps spur me on.

"I'll have my Black Country flag with me and hopefully I'm representing us lot.

"Everyone has been fantastic with their support. I can't thank them enough. Especially my family, they have been amazing."

Ahead of the challenge Dave had acclimatised to the harsh conditions by training in a humidity chamber at the University of Birmingham. Athletes sleep under in tents in the desert and face different terrain and conditions every day – including huge sand dunes, dried up river beds and rocky routes.

Each athlete is given a GPS tracker so that the organisers can monitor the competitors can the make their way through the vast desert.

Dave has had a full medical and a electrocardiogram and was told he could encounter heatstroke, dehydration and bites from creatures like scorpions.

His kit bag weighs around 9kgs and carries all his essentials. The only supplies they are given is four litres of fresh water each day.

The only items he will eat each day consists of dried food likes noodles, fruit and even cottage pie and chilli con carne.

The team have to take in a minimum of 2,000 calories a day and athletes are instructed to use tablets to replace essential nutrients and electrolytes.

But Dave added: "I'm also taking a Peperami and some pork scratchings too. They will help with replacing salts and they are a treat too to keep me going."

Dave was born with the hereditary disease of the eye of Retinitis Pigmentosa which was diagnosed at the age of 10. The condition brought the gradual deterioration of his sight. "At the time I was diagnosed it didn't affected me as maybe I didn't really understood it. From 16 my sight just nosed dived. But it had gone by my 20s.

"Because you get so busy and you learn to cope. It still staggers me that just a few years ago I could see. Now I can see millions and millions of lights in front of me, then dull lights then almost a honeycomb and it is bright.

"But it was and is still a frustration. You never get used to being blind but you learn to accept the fact that barring a miracle there are no worries in the world that will bring it back."

Dave said: "I've been told the kids look up to me and that's nice. If they can think 'if that old codger can do it, what can we do'. I want them to look it that way. If that spurs them on then fantastic."

Trains not trees would help us all

NETWORK Rail, the West Midlands Integrated Transport Authority, Centro and DfT should no longer fund the re-opening of rural lines but get to work in re-introduction of stations and tracks that literally run alongside or near to bumper-to-bumper commuter traffic in our own densely populated urban conurbation.

Stations are urgently needed at Waterfront and Merry Hill, Dudley Castle Hill, Wednesbury on the scrub and woodland, 21km Black Country rail line. Trains not trees would be more of a help to us all.

What's the purpose of debates?

WHAT is the big deal with these TV debates? What is all the fuss about?

We managed prior to 2010 without them. Even after that what did we learn? Not one thing.

More than 20 million people watched them, yet the turn-out was still low.

I for one watched out of curiosity for the first one. The debates offered nothing in enlightening me into voting for any of the parties, in a lot of ways it turned me off politics because of their childish bickering.

Debates serve no more purpose than allowing TV producers to use the time to broadcast such drivel, rather than find decent programmes for viewers to watch. This is just cheap TV and if those that think for a second the debates will make people vote, then they are deluding themselves.

The politicians just use the time to attempt to con the public and later deny they said it. I say just don't have them, a complete waste of time and money.

This is the only, unused, north-south, inter-city line between congested New Street Station and the Hereford-Shrewsbury Line between London and Scotland. It goes through the heart of three densely populated Black Country boroughs with a population of about a million.

Many years ago, there was a PTA/Centro plan to put Midland Metro light rail trams on this freight line but not even this has been achieved.

Intrigued at reaction to scooter comments

WHEN I wrote about mobility scooters they were generalised comments not an attack on any specific user.

I am not sure why but D Robinson, who is 83 and cannot walk more than 20/30 yards before losing balance, seems to have taken it as a personal affront.

Quite why my so-called petty comments should niggle him intrigues me.

The point I was trying to make was not so much about who should use mobility scooters or not, but how they can be seen to be used for purposes for which they are not intended, and in doing so they can present a hazard.

By his own admission D Robinson's scooter can only travel up to 6kph, so he implies that I exaggerate when I say people have whizzed past me pretty quickly.

In my book six kph is a pretty brisk walking pace and in towns with its congested or restricted pavements, and at that speed, there is a chance of serious injury, especially concerning the elderly and infirm.

For me, totally deaf and with a balance problem, changing direction on a pavement and with a scooter travelling at that speed behind me, it could be a quick route to A&E. This to me makes it difficult to accept at face value the assertion that most, if not all, motor scooter owners have third party insurance.

You can see doctor - 18 days later

AS the General Election looms, David Cameron has aspirations for an NHS working policy of seven days a week. Is he living in cloud cuckoo land or just having a laugh?

I very rarely have made a visit to the doctors but on Monday, March 30, I had the need to make an appointment at the practice I use which is Great Bridge Partnerships for Health.

Having no joy trying to phone and book an appointment I had to go and see the receptionist. I was astonished when she told me that I could see a doctor on Friday, April 17, which was 18, yes 18 days later. I left and went to see a local pharmacist about my problem.

So please Mr Cameron get to core issues like this before trying to preach for better things.

Reason why we need a zoo

REPLYING to my letter calling for the demolition of Dudley Hippodrome, M Laws asks "Why do we need a zoo?" The answer of course is that, in 2014 it was visited by 290,000 people.

In his letter he does acknowledge what an eyesore and anachronism it is by suggesting a way of disguising it.

Another correspondent gave their reason for preservation the fact that they had performed there.

New figures for ethnic cop drive

HOPES that the appointment of 450 new constables to West Midlands Police would see more black and minority ethnic recruits have met with limited success.

The fresh intake is being staggered and the first two groups totalling 162 officers include 13 described as Asian, two listed as black and seven recorded as being of mixed race, figures reveal.

There have been a total of 138 white recruits.

The force was specifically aiming to use the recruitment drive — the first in more than five years for the cash-strapped force — to increase the number of black and minority ethnic officers, as well as younger recruits, to better reflect the communities it serves.

Easter getaway flights on the up

MORE than 415,000 people are expected to jet off from Birmingham Airport during the two-week Easter break — an increase of almost nine per cent on last year.

The most popular destinations so far have included Spain and Scotland. Those proving a big hit for short city breaks over the first weekend are Amsterdam, Paris and Madrid.

Spokesman David Lavender said: "Approximately 418,000 people will pass through Birmingham Airport over the two-week holiday period, representing an 8.8 per cent increase compared to Easter last year."

Moomins are looming with Finnish author exhibition

Report by Heather Large

HER books on The Moomins have sold in their millions and been translated into more than 40 languages around the globe.

And the life of Finnish author Tove Jansson and her most loved creation is the subject of a new exhibition in Sandwell.

It will celebrate the 100th anniversary of her birth as well as her characters. The display at Wednesbury Museum and Art Gallery has original unseen photographs and material relating to the life and work of Jansson, who grew up in Helsinki, along with illustrated books and early first editions.

Her enchanting world of The Moomins included Moomintroll, Moominmamma and Moominpappa - little white trolls who live in Moominvalley, with other fantastical creatures such as the Hattifatteners, Mymbles and Whompers.

To run alongside the exhibition there will also be vintage editions of classic children's books and personal favourite books loaned by the community on display.

Jansson's first of nine Moomin books - The Moomins and the Great Flood, which she wrote and illustrated - was published in 1945. She went on to produce a comic strip for London's Evening News newspaper in 1954 and it be-

Tove Jansson seen with some Moomins in 1992

Associate curator Sumitra Upham, at Wednesbury Museum

A Moomin book from 1954

A 1962 Penguin book

came so popular that within two years 120 newspapers in more than 20 countries around the world were running it.

Jansson was born in Helsinki to a family of artists and her writing career was inspired by the beauty found in her home country. The exhibition is being brought to the Black Country by the Institute for Contemporary Art and curated by the Finnish Institute.

It's part of a number of celebrations taking place to mark the 100th anniversary of Jansson's birth, which have included a new film Moomins on the Riviera due to be screened later this year.

Museum services manager Jane Hanney said: "Tove Jansson, an accomplished Finnish author and artist, had a life every bit as fascinating as her famous creations, The Moomins. The display draws an intimate portrait of the artist's life on her private island in the archipelago of Finland, where she regularly spent the summer months and at her studio in Helsinki."

The exhibition in Wednesbury is called Tove Jansson: Tales from the Nordic Archipelago and will be on display until June 27. For opening times visit www.sandwell.gov.uk/museumevents

Boss puts up £2,000 reward as store hit

THE owner of a mobile phone shop who lost thousands of pounds worth of stock following a break-in has said he will offer a reward to anyone with information that leads to the crooks being convicted.

Ali Mahmood said he was willing to give £2,000 to anyone who helps catch those responsible. His shop Talk n Talk in Great Bridge was ransacked by thieves who struck during the night. They broke in by smashing a hole in the roof.

Batteries and LCD screens for iPhones and smartphones were stolen as well as top-of-the-range speakers and headphones during the raid which happened overnight between Monday, February 27 and Tuesday, February 28.

Mr Mahmood said: "My manager came in on Tuesday morning to find the place ransacked."

The 40-year-old businessman said he was hopeful the offer of a reward will encourage people to come forward. He said: "The thieves will be trying to sell it on. It's high-quality stock."

Mr Mahmood said the crooks who had raided his business were 'low-lives'. On top of huge losses caused by the stolen stock, Mr Mahmood had the added blow of having to foot the bill for the roof repairs.

"It's about £1,000 worth of repairs."

Terrorists' Dudley penpal is jailed for nine months

THE son of a former mosque leader has been jailed for nine months after being in regular correspondence with some of the world's most feared and violent terrorists.

Unemployed Usman Choudhary also had an image of a man holding up a decapitated head on his mobile phone and de-faced images of the Queen.

Detectives found more than 500 letters sent to and written by the 34-year-old when they raided his home in the Black Country.

The list read like a Who's Who of murderers and hard-line clerics held behind bars in the UK and US, including the killers of Lee Rigby and radical Muslim cleric Abu Hamza.

Choudhary — whose father, Ghulam is the ex-chairman of Dudley Central Mosque — had carefully filed and indexed all the correspondence, along with details of £14,000 of cash gifts sent by him to some of the inmates. It is unclear where the money came from.

Obsession

Miss Alison Morgan, prosecuting, told Kingston-upon-Thames Crown Court that Choudhary from Terry Street, Kates Hill, had an 'obsession' with violent jihad.

"This led to his association with those convicted of very serious terrorist offences," she said. "He had a prolific correspondence with prisoners. Hundreds of letters and copies were discovered at his home address in December 2013 showing the extent of the correspondence.

"It was either with those convicted of terrorist offences or individuals recently converted to Islam and introduced to Choudhary by others.

"He had close contact with those convicted of the most serious terrorist offences such as the planned bombing of trans-Atlantic airliners and the murderers of Lee Rigby.

"They felt confident in expressing their extreme anti-western views to Mr Choudhary. He was offering services and support, sending money, clothes and reading material."

Choudhary had an image of a be-headed man on his mobile phone, the court was told.

There was also footage praising Osama Bin Laden and Choudhary had de-faced the Queen's head and the crown displayed on stamps on the letters.

There were 75 prisoners on the list of correspondents, 61 of whom were serving time for terrorist offences. They included Michael Abedolajo, given a whole life term for murdering soldier Lee Rigby; infamous preacher Abu Hamza, recently found guilty of supporting terrorism by a court in New York; and another 'penpal' was Roshonara Choudhry — no relation — jailed for life after stabbing Labour MP Stephen Timms.

Mr Daniel Friedman, defending, described the case as being 'at the least end of the spectrum of offending'.

Choudhary admitted disseminating a terrorist publication. He denied two more serious terrorist offences and the judge acquitted him on both of these.

Canvassing – from bins to stilettos . . .

MICHAEL Gove picked up the blown-over brown wheelie bin and put it neatly back where it belonged.

The former Education Secretary, now Tory Chief Whip, was doing a little bit of a good deed while out canvassing in Wolverhampton.

Limes Road in Tettenhall had turned into some sort of savage ecosystem. Bright, glorious sunshine one minute, rain lashing down the next and topped off with gusts of wind threatening to drag the leaflets from his hands before he could stuff them through anyone's letterbox.

Wolverhampton South West's Conservatives called in the big guns for the first week of the General Election campaign. And with good reason. Paul Uppal's majority is just 691 votes.

Helicopter

The following day we would get a visit from both the Prime Minister and the Chancellor to Banks's Brewery, where the Marston's boss Ralph Findlay had just backed them in a letter to the Daily Telegraph.

They would arrive by helicopter and get picked up in a Jaguar before being driven to their appointment in style. But on the street in Tettenhall the Chief Whip was putting in the leg work. Most of the knocks on the door went unanswered.

Perhaps this was a good sign for the Tories. Maybe it was evidence that their long-term economic plan was working and that everyone was out at a job. One man announced he was going to vote for the Scottish National Party. To be honest, they're probably going to be the biggest winners after the vote on May 7 anyway so it wasn't a bad shout.

Addressing supporters – Eddie Izzard complete with nail varnish and heels

A woman came out of her house and gave Mr Gove what for about the pressure that headteachers are under. She was especially concerned about the targets they have to meet.

The former education secretary listened and the woman apologised for having a 'whinge'. Mr Gove said she was doing no such thing and offered to raise her concerns with the Prime Minister. After all, education is no longer his brief. It's now in the hands of Nicky Morgan.

Something did occur to me that should probably have occurred to the Conservatives too. If the Tories cannot win in lovely, leafy Tettenhall, then they are never going to have a majority government again.

Eddie Izzard brought a bit of star quality to Labour's election campaign in the key marginal seat of Halesowen and Rowley Regis. The comedian visited in support of candidate Stephanie Peacock.

He's been all over the West Midlands and beyond backing Labour.

It's certainly useful for any political party to have a star backer. But will anyone who met Eddie Izzard remember he was there to tell them to vote Labour? Or will they just tell their friends they spent part of the day with a comedian? And how does he manage to canvass in those heels?

Mr Blue plaque as ELO star is commemorated

FANS joined family and friends of Electric Light Orchestra star Kelly Groucutt at the unveiling of a commemorative blue plaque outside the house where he was born and brought up.

Dudley Mayor Councillor Margaret Aston performed the honours and then spoke of the love and respect for the bass player, vocalist and father-of-four who died from a heart attack in 2009.

A quarter peal of bells rang out from nearby Christ Church, where he was christened, for 45 minutes. The occasion drew such a large crowd that Gough Road, Coaseley had to be closed in both directions.

Kelly's sister Mrs Pamela Whale, aged 74, from Upper Gornal said: "It is a magic moment to see his work and music recognised in this way by so many people."

Spilling

Brother John, 72, added: "He was known throughout the world but never forgot where his roots were."

Another brother Tony, aged 75, looked at the crowd spilling across the street and recalled with a smile: "This has meant everything to us."

"His first band used to rehearse in the cellar of the house and made so much noise the ground shook. I used to warn him that one day they would have to close the road because of him and now they have."

Members of Kelly's first band, Ricky Burns and the Vibras - named after a guitar - were also at the ceremony. Jimmy Groucutt, now 72, and living in Bilston, but not related, said: "We started playing when he was 15 and we were together for two and half years. Fame never changed him."

At the unveiling are ex-band members from Ricky Burns and the Vibras

Mayor of Dudley Margaret Aston with Groucutt family members for the ceremony

Councillor Aston said: "He was a very much loved son of Dudley and the respect in which he is held is illustrated by the size of the turn out."

Fans Thomas Hoyer aged 56 and his 53-year-old wife Conny flew in from their home in Potsdam in Germany to be at the unveiling ceremony, and explained: "We loved his music. He was a great musician and a lovely man."

Kelly, who was born Michael William Groucutt, lived in Coaseley from 1945 to 1967.

The house is now owned by Mr Jake Hill and his wife Coleen who have lived there since 1994.

New nature group head for the hills

A NEW nature group is hoping to attract more members amongst to join its ranks.

Friends of Rowley Hills was recently set up with the aim of protecting and promoting the nature reserve in Rowley Regis.

It was started in December and currently has nine committee members. The group carry out work with The Wildlife Trust for Birmingham and the Black Country on the reserve.

Joe Peacock, Communications Officer at The Wildlife Trust, said: "It's great there is a new nature group. They will help to raise awareness of the nature reserve and help ensure it has a bright future."

The Rowley Hills include Turner's Hill, Bury Hill, Portway Hill and Darby's Hill. For more information visit friendsoffrowleyhills.org website.

Car topples in collision

A CAR ended up on its side after colliding with an electrical box and railings in the Black Country.

Firefighters were called to Four Winds Road, between Dudley and Rowley Regis, at around 7pm on Saturday.

The driver had left the scene by the time crews arrived and no-one was injured.

It was one of a number of smashes in the region over the bank holiday weekend.

FOCUS ON BLACKHEATH AND ROWLEY REGIS

Rotary club seeking more recruits and causes in area

By Jamie Brassington

A ROTARY club is planning to branch out further into the communities of Rowley Regis and Blackheath with their work helping good causes.

Halesowen is currently the main patch that Halesowen and Rowley Regis Rotary Club cover but secretary Barry Wheeler is hoping to see that expanded in the near future.

Rotary clubs are an international network of men and women who volunteer to help lives of communities where they live.

Mr Wheeler, aged 77, said: "We are hoping to branch out further into the towns. We cover those areas but Halesowen is our main patch."

"We want to reach all members through our community work. Some of the children we have helped have come from real poor backgrounds, which was a shock to us."

"Currently we are also after new recruits with fresh ideas on how we can help communities. I welcome anyone with new ideas to get touch with us."

The club is currently organising the Black Country Run that will take place in Halesowen this year, which raised over £22,000 for charity in 2014.

Members also haul a sleigh around the area for Father Christmas in the run up to Christmas to create a festive presence.

The club have also sponsored members of Halesowen scouts to fly to Japan this year as part of world scouts jamboree event, which Halesowen hosted in 2014.

For more information about the club visit halesowenrowleyregisrotary.org.

Keep Dancing for Acorns judges Jemma Bird, Tom Ross, Genelle Aldred and Richard Wilford

Celebrity panel judge Acorns dance contest

DANCERS put their best feet forward to raise vital funds for a charity that cares for children with life limiting or life threatening conditions.

The Keep Dancing for Acorns event, which raised £6,000 for Acorns Children's Hospice, saw dancers of all styles and abilities taking to the floor.

Mel Williams, 42, from Rowley Regis, whose five-year-old son Mason receives respite care at Acorns, took to the floor with her daughter Sadie for a 1940s inspired routine. She said: "We both had a lot of fun and it's some way of giving Acorns back for the wonderful job they do. The charity relies on fundraising through events like this."

Presenter Joanne Malin hosted the fundraiser at the Great Hall at the University of Birmingham. A celebrity judging panel made up of former Apprentice candidate Jemma Bird, TV presenter Genelle Aldred, sports commentator Tom Ross and BBC WM's Richard Wilford chose the eventual winner — 12-year-old Poppy Briarty from Birmingham.

Appeal is made after rider hurt

RESIDENTS have described how they heard a "terrific bang" after a motorcyclist was injured in an accident involving a taxi.

People in Springfield Lane, Rowley Regis, were woken at 5am on Saturday by the sound of a car revving its engine then a loud bang. This was followed by the anguished cry of the motorcyclist after his bike crashed into a parked Toyota Yaris, breaking the rider's ankle.

However, the driver of the silver cab failed to stop following the collision and is now being sought by police.

Diana Mannino, 58, who owns the Yaris, said she was awoken by the noise of the crash. She said: "It was a terrific bang."

Police are appealing for anyone with information in relation to the taxi driver to call Sandwell police on 101.

Rock and ska gigs at pub

MUSIC fans are in for a treat with a series of gigs being held at a Blackheath pub.

First to take to the stage will be a tribute to rocker Meatloaf at the Knight's Quest.

Meatloaf, also known as Craig Halford, will perform the hits at the pub, in High Street, tomorrow (Friday). Admission is £4.

There will be a performance by ska band AKA Ska Face at the venue on Saturday. Admission is £3.

The Prodigy are back to spit fire

ALBUM REVIEWS

By Leon Burakowski

OPENING with the menacing title track, yells of 'get down' fused with a cacophony of video game noise and pounding beats — The Prodigy are back and plan to take no prisoners with The Day Is My Enemy, on their Take Me To The Hospital label.

The electro-dance punks are straight into Firestarter territory as Keith Flint snarls and spits his Larndarn accented lyrics on Nasty before unleashing the exhilarating drum 'n' bass of Rebel Radio. Sleaford Mods guest on Ibiza (or I-beef-ya) in a whirl of expletives and tracks with titles like Destroy, Rhythm Bomb, Rok-Weiler, Get Your Fight On and Wall Of Death are about as subtle as a drunken night out with Danny Dyer. Best of all is Wild Frontier, a Super Mario smackdown of chants, electronics and crashing beats.

Expect The Prodigy's sold out show at Birmingham O2 Academy on May 7 to be an intense high-energy experience.

Paul Simon is without doubt one of the finest songwriters of the past 50 years and The Ultimate Collection: Paul Simon lives up to its title with a 19-track selection of greatest hits.

This value-for-money Sony compilation mixes up the music from three distinct periods of his career. There is his 1960s collaboration with singer Art Garfunkel on such classics as Bridge Over Troubled Water, The Boxer, Mrs Robinson, The Sound of Silence and The Only Living Boy In New York. Then there is his solo career with his 1970s hits Cecilia, Me & Julio Down by the School Yard, Slip Slidin' Away and the reggae-flavoured Mother & Child Reunion.

The Prodigy — about as subtle as a drunken night out with Danny Dyer

Then his groundbreaking collaborations with South African and Brazilian musicians that produced the hits You Can Call Me Al, Graceland, Diamonds On The Soles Of Her Shoes, The Obvious Child and The Boy In The Bubble.

Paul Simon is on tour for a series of collaborative concerts with Sting including the Genting Arena at the NEC Birmingham on Sunday.

Young Liverpudlian band Circa Waves deliver short sharp blasts of dynamic indie pop, melodic and muscular with guitars that jangle and chime on their debut Young Chasers, on the Virgin EMI label. Imagine The Strokes but with a Mersey twang and a big smile.

Young Chasers is a joyous debut from one of the hardest gigging outfits on the circuit with lots of summer-ready anthems, such as T-shirt Weather, My Love, Young Chasers, Stuck In My Teeth and Best Years.

Circa Waves play The Library venue at The Institute in Digbeth on Tuesday.

Soulful, sad songs from a young singer-songwriter from London fill Eisewhere, the debut by 22-year-old Denai Moore.

Released through Because Music, Elsewhere has been given an urban nocturnal vibe by producer Rodaidd McDonald (who has produced The XX and Adele), with tinkling piano, echo and atmospherics. Moore has a strong voice but her melancholy R&B gets stuck in one low gear.

John Bramwell is one of the UK's finest songwriters and with a Mancunian drawl to match his world-weary musings, his songs often find him patching up a broken heart in a bar. Kindred spirit Guy Garvey has long championed Bramwell's group I Am Kloot and this exceptional double set Hold Back The Night: I Am Kloot Live (via Walk Tall Recordings/PIAS) is a good way to catch up with Britain's best barely known band.

Ghostpoet raps/recites over atmospheric grooves created from beats, fuzzy guitar and keyboard flourishes on his third album Shedding Skin (via Play It Again Sam). His unique vocal style is somewhere between Lou Reed, Mark E Smith and Gil Scott-Heron. There is a simmering tension that threatens to boil over on Better Not Butter.

These stalwarts of the Severn Valley Railway, seen in July 1986, could remember the day 21 years earlier when the momentous decision was made to start running steam trains again

Between the two reports on railway cutbacks, the West Midlands was hit as hard as anywhere

Dr Beeching had been tasked with making savings and the axing of several lines made him unpopular with rail enthusiasts

Why cutbacks put Dr Beeching on the wrong track with the rail enthusiasts

DR Richard Beeching has a bad reputation among rail enthusiasts. His name has become a dirty word.

On the back of his 1963 report 'The Reshaping of British Railways', more commonly known as the Beeching report, the government ripped up around a third of the national's rail tracks.

It was a move which devastated the network, costing 67,000 people their jobs and closing 2,363 railway stations in the process. But much less widely known is Beeching's second report, which marks its 50th anniversary in 2015. Just don't expect to see rail enthusiasts celebrating.

Entitled 'The Development of the Major Railway Trunk Routes' the report cemented much of what had been achieved by the earlier publication and further concentrated future plans for the network around a handful of main lines.

Between the two reports, the West Midlands was hit as hard as anywhere.

Dr Beeching had been tasked with making savings. Big savings.

British Rail was losing £140 million a year

MEMORY LANE

By Rob Cox

when he took over as chairman of the British Transport Commission in 1961.

His strategy was to implement wholesale route closures in an attempt to concentrate resources on the core routes and close down those sections which were losing money.

Inevitable

So in the West Midlands, some of the closures were inevitable. It emerged from Dr Beeching's studies that the Windmill End station, just outside Dudley, had been used by just one passenger a day, and it was surely little wonder that the town's three-mile Bumble Hole line was to close. But Beeching did not stop there.

While most people expected that some of the smaller towns would lose their rail links, he proposed the closure of all passenger services to Dudley and Walsall.

Dudley was one of the biggest communities in the country to be hit when its station at the bottom of Castle Hill was closed in July 1964.

Walsall station managed to avoid the full force of the axe, but had its services drastically reduced with just one line being retained to Birmingham New Street. Cannock, Aldridge and Wednesbury would also lose their stations, along with Darlaston, West Bromwich and Great Bridge.

Across the country 4,500 miles of railway tracks were put out of use. In their place motorways were being built at a rapid rate and the car was seen as the future.

No longer would rural areas have immediate access to the rail network. In many places replacement bus services were established, but few stood the test of time.

It is often argued Dr Beeching took a narrow-minded view of how money was generated on the rail network.

David Williams, editor of the Severn Valley Railway News, explains: "His remit was to reduce the deficit that the railways had at that time," he said. "It has been said since that what he did was to cut off the bits around the core of the network.

"The trouble was that those fed into the main system. What Beeching didn't take into account was just that.

"He had got a scientific background and not a background in the railways. He considered the lines and stations independently not the cumulative affect his measures would have. His view was a very narrow one."

The second Beeching report concentrated on stimulating traffic on the core routes. Rather than branch line closures it set out which sections of the main line would be developed, and which would not.

Dr Beeching felt the "bloated" network was a legacy from the private foundations of the railways that was no longer cost-effective.

His conclusion was that of 7,500 miles of 'trunk' railway only 3,000 miles "should be selected for future development" and invested in.

It resulted in traffic being routed along nine lines.

Dr Beeching estimated it would save between £50-£100m.

New England in the Fall

Nine days selected departures September and October

PRICE FROM

Experience one of nature's greatest sights, some stunning countryside and two wonderful cities on this escorted tour.

A full day is spent in the incomparable city of New York where there is plenty of time to explore at leisure, shop, or join the optional city tour or helicopter flight.

Journey north into the scenic highways of up-state New York stopping at the large Yankee Candle flagship store in Deerfield en route.

Enjoy a full-day's tour through the stunning scenery of New England and soak up the beauty of the forested hills and picture-book villages and towns like Woodstock. Travel through the spectacular Quechee Gorge and along the Kancamagus Highway taking in the Fall foliage displays, before visiting the resort town of North Conway.

Take time out to rest and relax in the Maine village of Bethel or join an optional excursion to Mount Washington, which includes a trip on the historic Cog Railway to the summit of New England's highest peak, in the White Mountains region.

Boston is America's most European city overflowing with historical sights, pretty parks and an attractive waterfront area. There's also colourful Quincy Market with its bars, restaurants and speciality stalls. A guided city tour and Whale Watch Cruise are also offered here (both optional).

And finally head via the Pilgrim city of Plymouth and fashionable Newport, Rhode Island, on the return to New York's JFK airport before the flight home.

Tour has X Factor for star Alexandra

Lady in red –Alexandra with dancers in a scene from the show

X FACTOR winner Alexandra Burke will reprise her West End role as soul star Rachel Marron in Thea Sharrock's hit musical The Bodyguard at Wolverhampton.

The stage version of the 1992 Oscar-nominated movie, that starred Whitney Houston and Kevin Costner, will be at the Grand Theatre from April 21 to May 2.

Miss Burke said "I couldn't be happier to be joining the tour and I'm excited to get started. Being on the theatre stage has brought me great happiness.

"It is an honour to have been asked to join the team and I look forward to creating new and long lasting memories with the cast."

She rose to fame winning the fifth series of The X Factor and her debut single Hallelujah went on to sell more than one million copies in the UK. Her first album Overcome also featured the chart-topping singles Bad Boys and Start Without You. She has toured in her own right and as support for Beyonce, and went on to take over from Wolverhampton's Beverley Knight in The Bodyguard on the London stage.

At matinee performances the leading role will be played by Pop Idol finalist Zoe Birkett. The Bodyguard returns for a run at Birmingham Hippodrome in August.

'Buy a ticket, or two – you won't regret it'

Count on this for good time

ON one of his previous appearances in Birmingham the bespectacled buffoon who is Count Arthur Strong had difficulty navigating his way through the theatre curtains and was convinced the stage was facing the wrong way until he turned around.

Since then the Harry Worth throwback, has made the leap from radio to the gogglebox and has won critical acclaim.

The twisted world of Count Arthur, played and written wonderfully by Steve Delaney, is littered with characters who are as out of touch with modern society as he is.

Disasters

Strong's Radio 4 comedy shows started 10 years ago and have run for seven series so far and focus upon the everyday disasters of the once "famous" star of variety who has never really lost his sense of being a showbiz master, even though he is the only one who holds that opinion.

This mixed-up character never misses an opportunity to express his extensive knowledge about entertainment and the rest of the world, of which he is an expert. He has even sent a personal message to theatregoers.

"If you only buy one ticket for something this year buy a ticket for this one twice and bring a friend. I promise you won't regret it. And if you do there must be something wrong with you. No refunds."

He brings his Somebody Up There Licks Me show to the New Alexandra in Birmingham on April 17.

Electro dub pioneers in exclusive live date

ELECTRO dub pioneers Dreadzone are returning to the Black Country with an exclusive live appearance at The Robin 2 in Bilston.

The core members Greg Dread, original bassmaster Leo Williams, the unmistakable MC Spee, legendary reggae vocalist Earl 16 alongside Chris Compton on guitar and Basil on technology make up the current Dreadzone live line up.

As well as live favourites from their back catalogue the band will be playing tracks from Escapades at their show tomorrow.

Tickets are £15 advance and £17 on the door. Call the box office on 01902 401211 or book online at www.therobin.co.uk

Musical feast is on the Cafe menu

LARKIN Poe take the stage at the Kitchen Garden Cafe, King's Heath, Birmingham on Wednesday, April 15 with support from Raevannan Husbandens.

This is a standing only show which is being staged at the Hare & Hounds, York Road, King's Heath and tickets are £13 in advance or £15 on the night. Doors open 7.30pm and the show starts 8pm.

Stourbridge Folk Club hosts founder member of The Bushbury Mountain Daredevils, Eddy Morton for the launch of his new album, Rainbow Man, on April 16. Tickets are £5 and doors open 8pm.

New Wulfrun date for Dr Hook gig

THE Dr Hook gig – postponed after lead singer Ray Sawyer was injured in a fall – has been rearranged for Thursday, May 14 at the Wulfrun Hall in Wolverhampton.

The show was meant to take place in March but Sawyer broke his arm so the remaining eight dates of the Hooked on Hits tour had to be postponed. All tickets for the original date remain valid for the new date.

Dr Hook enjoyed considerable success in the 1970s with hit singles including When You're in Love with a Beautiful Woman. Tickets, £29.15 are available from Midland Box Office: 0870 320 7000.

Deliciously light – Garstang Blue cheesecake with pear jelly and toasted hazelnuts

Classy joint – The Fox at Chetwynd Aston

Coriander and lime chicken, pak choi and noodle salad with Thai coconut dressing

Whichever way you look at it this classy Fox is a real winner

IF The Fox had a trophy cabinet, it would look something like the one Sir Alex Ferguson filled during his tenure at Man Utd.

In recent years, The Fox at Chetwynd Aston, Newport has enjoyed wins from five respected guide books.

Since 2007, it's featured in the Good Pub Guide, winning its County Dining Pub of the Year more times than any restaurant ought.

It's a perennial feature of the AA Pub Guide, it never misses a spot in the Good Beer Guide, Alastair Sawday rates it as though it had some sort of divine right and even Michelin has included it in its listing for the UK's best pubs.

They say that when you find a successful recipe, you ought to bottle it. Not that that advice has reached The Fox. They tend to bottle ales, fine wines and a deliciously fruity juice called Bumbleberry. Recipes are saved for the kitchen.

The Fox is part of the Brunning and Price group, which also owns The Armoury, in Shrewsbury. It's one of the region's finest pub groups, coupling decent, generously-portioned food at affordable prices and an impressive selection of drinks with good standards of service. The quality of both food and service at The Fox is resolutely high.

It's been the foodie equivalent of some sort of 21st century winning machine, notching up success after success as it continues to out-gun, out-run and out-strip the competition.

I'm not convinced with the Good Pub Guide's adjudication that it's the very best dining pub in Shropshire – I can think of others where food is of a higher quality – but it certainly deserves its recognition. It is undoubtedly one of the very best.

The Fox is a large Edwardian-style pub with a mix of quiet nooks and crannies, bright sunny rooms and a busy central bar. During weekends, high days and holidays, its largest vaulted room leads out onto a south-facing terrace, with views over the gently-rolling countryside and wooded hills beyond.

Strengths

When my friend and I visited, our thoughts couldn't have been further from al fresco dining on summery afternoons. We met for dinner a deux on a decidedly chilly evening, when the wind was blowing a hooley.

One of the key strengths of The Fox is its staff. Overwhelmingly well-mannered and polite, they are well-drilled and pay attention to detail at all times. Despite the invariable rush at the bar, they remain relatively unflustered and their youthful exuberance and energy transmits itself to diners.

It's a classy operation. But the food is my favourite part. And on my most recent visit, it didn't disappoint. The Fox isn't at the standards of, say, a Michelin Bib Gourmand venue. Nor is it particularly finessed. It does, however, offer an innovative and creative selection of seasonal food at reasonable prices.

It's no surprise that The Fox notches up accolades like a lothario adding notches to a bedpost. It consistently achieves high standards, provides a great environment for meeting-and-eating and a menu that offers more than same-same-staples like fish-and-chips, or lasagne with garlic bread.

Gregg Wallace & John Torode
MasterChef (BBC1, 7.30pm)
Restaurateur John Torode and radio presenter Gregg Wallace host the cookery competition as contestants are put through gruelling culinary challenges to test not just their skills, but also their knowledge of food and ability to cope in a professional kitchen. The semi-finals begin with the eight hopefuls split into teams of four and challenged to the Relay Invention test, in which both groups must come up with a single dish between them. Using a chicken and a range of vegetables, herbs and spices, each team member has just 20 minutes to make their contribution - but as they cannot speak, they must leave clues behind to help their team-mates decipher what the dish is supposed to be. Continues tomorrow.

America's Bubba Watson secured his second title in three years here 12 months ago, finishing three strokes clear of compatriot Jordan Spieth and Sweden's Jonas Björk. England's Lee Westwood was the highest-placed British player in seventh place, with Northern Ireland's world number one Rory McIlroy and 57-year-old German Bernhard Langer among those one shot behind him. The drought for British winners here goes all the way back to 1996, when Nick Faldo secured the third of his Green Jackets, and despite a strong representation among the world's elite, European golfers have also struggled to make their mark here for a surprisingly long time. With commentary by Peter Alliss, Ken Brown, Andrew Cotter and Paul Azinger. Subsequent programmes subject to change.

Comedy, starring Josh Zuckerman. (2008)

The day of execution arrives for Tommy

So far, 2015 is shaping up to be a good year for period dramas, whether it's BBC Two's prestigious adaptation of Wolf Hall, or viewers swooning over the shirtless sything action in Poldark.

Banished, which follows the first prisoners sent to Australia in 1788 and their battle to survive, hasn't made quite so many headlines. However, as we reach the final episode this week, it has offered plenty of drama and, as you'd expect given its premise and the fact that it was written by Cracker creator Jimmy McGovern, plenty of grit.

Actor Julian Rhind-Tutt, who stars as convict Tommy Barrett, certainly seems glad that Banished hasn't gone in for the pristine costumes and sweeping romance of some other dramas – for a start, it meant he was cast again type.

He explains: "It was a very interesting opportunity to play a convict. Tommy is more of a manly man than any role I've had the chance to play recently. I've been playing aristocratic people, politicians, advisors, people like that. But Sita (Williams), our producer who I worked with 15 years ago kindly remembered that there are other areas that we might like to explore, and so she thought it would be interesting for me to have a look at Tommy Barrett."

In fact it seems just being on the set was an education: "I read that they sent these 700-odd people and 300 soldiers out to Australia with only six scythes. And with that they were expected to start their own agricultural community. There is, of course, a valid historical opinion that the authorities didn't really care that much about what happened to them.

"But what struck me most often as I stood on the set – surrounded by only a small collection of tawdry canvas tents and the most basic amenities to survive – was how swiftly and miraculously today's modern metropolis of Sydney has evolved."

Rhind-Tutt even picked up a few new survival skills of his own to put on his CV. He says: "To a full driving licence and scuba diving I'll be adding 'axe work' – I had excellent training from some real Australian men, and I can now split kindling wood with some degree of efficiency.

"I can also say I have worked with leeches. It's the moment where they actually suck the blood and engorge themselves that you have to get over psychologically, but I tried it in good heart as part of our many adventures there."

But will he get to put those skills to use if Banished comes back for a second series?

It's not looking promising, as Tommy shares a tender embrace with his wife Elizabeth on the morning of his hanging. They are aware it could be their last moments together, but not everyone is ready to give up hope, as James Freeman pleads with the Governor to spare his friend's life, and the Reverend Johnson prevails upon Private Buckley to forgive his attacker. However, it's Spragg who's taking the most direct action as he fires up the convicts to make it clear how they feel about the execution...

David Wenham stars in Banished, BBC2, Thursday, 9pm

BEST OF THE REST

MONDAY
Inside Harley Street BBC2, 9pm

Film-maker Vanessa Engle is known for making insightful slice-of-life documentaries focusing on everything from dog-walkers and slimmers to orthodox Jews, feminism and people's incomes – always, she approaches her subjects in the same non-judgmental manner, which seems to put people at ease. That's ideal for this new three-part series shining a light on the supposedly exclusive world of private medical care, where she finds not only patients who are wealthy, but also others whose care is paid for by foreign governments or in some cases by charities. It seems that the people who frequent central London's famous street and its surrounding health facilities don't always fit the stereotype of rich, income-conscious celebs.

Code of a Killer ITV, 9pm
The main suspect is released to a storm of controversy, and with the killer of the two schoolgirls still at large, Baker proposes the ambitious plan of testing the blood of every male in the area between the ages of 18 and 34 – the world's first DNA manhunt. But he and Jeffreys face huge opposition from sceptics within the police and the community, as well as the establishment. Can they get everyone to believe in the science? David Threlfall and John Simm star in the conclusion of the two-part drama.

TUESDAY
Live UEFA Champions League ITV, 7.30pm
Atletico Madrid v Real Madrid (Kick-off 7.45pm). Coverage of the quarter-final first-leg match at the Estadio Vicente Calderon, as the Spanish rivals meet in a repeat of last season's final. Real won on that occasion and are ahead of Atletico in the La Liga standings, but they have come off second best in meetings between the two this season, with the hosts having beaten Carlo Ancelotti's men twice in the league and in the Copa del Rey. Mark Pougatch presents, with commentary by Clive Tyldesley and Andy Townsend, and analysis by Paul Scholes, Roy Keane and Lee Dixon.

WEDNESDAY
The Delivery Man ITV, 9.30pm
New series. Comedy starring Darren Boyd as a disillusioned policeman who leaves his job to train as a midwife on a busy maternity ward. Finding himself in a predominately female world, Matthew is soon joined by best pal and ex-cop Ian (Paddy McGuinness), who is hired as the hospital's security guard. In the first episode, a teenage dad tries to visit his pregnant girlfriend without her parents finding out his identity, and new boy Matthew must decide whose side to take. Co-starring Fay Ripley, Alex Macqueen, Aisling Bea and Llewella Gideon.

THURSDAY
The Secret Life of the Pub Channel 4, 10pm
It's been a tough few years for the pub industry – something that's been blamed on everything from cheap supermarket alcohol to the smoking ban – but it seems that despite it all, the local boozer still remains an institution, with the average British man spending a year and a half of his life propping up the bar. But apart from drinking, just what to do they there? Is it all soul-searching and slanging matches, as the soaps would have you believe, or is banter the order of the day? This documentary rigs the Lord Nelson in London's East End with cameras to find out what the men, including old mates Cudge and Dodds and city boys Joel and George really talk about when women are not around.

FRIDAY
Secrets of Great British Castles Channel 5, 8pm
For thousands of kids each year, Warwick Castle is a great excuse for a day trip from school. Get beyond the stuff some of us remember from our youth, and there's a lot more to this magnificent edifice than meets the eye, as historian Dan Jones reveals in this episode. For centuries it was a poisoned chalice to the Earls of Warwick who resided there, and its walls reverberate with stories of bloodshed, betrayal, murder and financial ruin. In 1068, a castle was built on the site by William the Conqueror, but 200 years later, the Beauchamp family turned it into the lavish stone fortress that still stands today. Dan sees for himself the incredible wealth and power the Beauchamps had during their 150-year dynasty.

This hybrid is a great choice

By Graham Breeze

It's little wonder that Slimming World, the weight loss organisation, has bought a fleet of Lexus hybrids – expect many more companies to follow suit.

The company recently signed a deal to provide 76 cars for its managers, the largest solus fleet agreement yet secured by Lexus. You can expect many more companies to recognise the benefits of driving the IS 300h with low emissions, lower fuel bills, reduced road tax along with luxury performance.

There's a growing movement among British businesses to embrace hybrid as the common sense choice for their vehicle fleets and this Lexus ticks all the boxes.

Today's companies are recognising the benefit-in-kind company car tax rates as a priority when making a buying choice and Lexus is proving its hybrid models have the reliability and long-lasting quality to keep costs down.

And if we needed more convincing about the qualities of this Lexus it couldn't have come from a better place with the canny Association of Scottish Motoring Writers naming the model as Executive Car Of The Year.

Launched in 2013, the latest IS displays the cutting edge styling that sets today's Lexus models apart from the crowd. Now hybrid technology delivers higher efficiency, impressive reliability and lower tax and fuel bills.

So why exactly is everyone raving about this model?

It simply makes sense for the fleet buyer with a top speed of 125mph, 0-62mph in 8.3secs, 64.2mpg, CO2 emissions of only 103g/km, benefit in kind levels at 13%, insurance group levels at 32E and a price tag of only £30,995.

The IS300h is a stunning looking car too, standing on 17" alloys and I particularly like the LED daytime running lights and HID bi-xenon headlamps.

There's a new and attractive cockpit where you quickly feel at home with comfortable seating up front and ample room for six footers in the back – though you wouldn't want to travel as a middle seat passenger in the rear.

You also get 60-40 split-folding rear seats and the IS 300h has a massive boot space.

'This Lexus is a joy to drive with firmed up suspension and is a great motorway cruiser, shutting out nearly every whisper of noise.'

There's all the technology you need as standard on this model. You get drive mode select, cruise control, smart entry and start, sound control, six-speaker audio system, 7" multimedia screen with remote dial control, rear view camera, Bluetooth, USB ports, dusk-sensing headlights, rain-sensing wipers and all-round parking sensors.

You also get all the safety measures you would expect from a luxury performer. There's driver and passenger front, side and knee airbags; curtain airbags, ABS, Vehicle Stability Control, traction control, hill start assist and tyre pressure warning.

This Lexus is a joy to drive with firmed up suspension and is a great motorway cruiser, shutting out nearly every whisper of wind and road noise and running near-silently on electric only power in town traffic.

Audi and BMW provide most of the competition in the segment but Toyota aren't targeting massive sales from their luxury Lexus brand and with a few more deals like Slimming World's will soon be popping the champagne corks.

Sure-footed when going gets tough

By John Griffiths

SEAT's latest model is certainly different: it's the first car I've ever driven that's fitted with an altimeter!

Another gadget for drivers, or an indication that the Spanish company is currently one of the real high-fliers in the car world?

Its UK sales were up 18 per cent last year – well above the national average – thanks in no small part to the much-admired Leon.

The family hatchback was joined last year by the sporting Cupra then the ST compact estate and sales really took off.

Now there's another new version, the X-Perience: a 'life-style' estate based on the ST but with the addition of the VW Group's proven Haldex four-wheel drive system.

It also heralds the launch next year of a new to SEAT range of SUVs, due to arrive here next year, which are likely to be based on similar underpinnings.

The altimeter, of course, is a bit of a gimmick. It's part of a digital display which pops up on the Satnav screen, along with a compass, when you venture off-road where there are no roads to display.

Since the ST is already a popular model, things are looking good for SEAT's dealers as there is not too much competition in this particular class. One of those rivals, for example, is available only with a 2.5 litre petrol engine (and costs more) while the X-Perience comes with a choice of two economical diesels. Both are 2.0 litre turbocharged units, a 150PS version with six-speed manual gearbox and the up-rated 184PS engine reserved for cars with the VW Group's brilliant DSG automatic/manual transmission.

There are two trim levels, with prices ranging from £24,385 to £28,870.

While it is a 4x4, the X-Perience isn't designed as a serious mud-plugger but more of a softroader, intended for those who's work or play requires the occasional off-road foray such as forestry tracks.

Recognising that, it has 15mm extra ground clearance over the standard ST but the '4Drive' system as SEAT calls it is the latest incarnation of the Haldex system which is entirely automatic and helps to keep you safe on road in all types of weather.

Essentially all the power goes to the front wheels in normal conditions but under heavy load, or in slippery conditions such as mud, gravel, ice and snow, up to 50 per cent of the torque is transferred to the rear. Then the dynamic stability and traction control decide whether there is more grip under the left or right wheels. You can actually feel it in action on the loose surface of the forest tracks, pushing the car round the corners to counteract understeer.

SEAT's engineers have found a good compromise with the suspension and damping, so while the car feels quite dynamic on twisty B-roads you don't get your teeth rattled when you do venture onto the rough stuff. Both engines are quiet, too. Despite their differences in output, though, both are capable of averaging 57.6mpg with a CO2 rating of 129g/km.

The 150PS version is pretty quick, tackling the 0 to 62mph dash in 8.7 seconds while the uprated version with the DSG gearbox is even quicker, at an impressive 7.1 seconds.

The DSG, dual clutch transmission is a fast and 'intelligent' way of changing gears which, in my opinion, is superior to older torque converter autos – the figures illustrate that – and for enthusiastic drivers also allows for ultra quick manual changes, using 'paddles' behind the steering wheel.

The combination of higher powered engine and DSG adds around £2,500 to the showroom price, which might seem quite a jump but it also comes in the model with the highest standard equipment levels.

Like the award-winning family hatchback, on which it is based, it has plenty of room for five but with the addition of a rear cargo area for extra versatility. It holds at impressive 587 litres of luggage with five on board – more than many big saloons – extending to 1,470 litres with all three rear seats folded flat. Roof rails add to its load-carrying ability.

As the new X-Perience sits alongside the sporty Cupra as the flagship of the Leon range, equipment levels are impressive, too. Alloy wheels, cruise control, climate control, tinted rear windows, touch screen infotainment system and rear parking sensors are standard, as well as all the usual items such as electric windows and mirrors.

For safety there are seven airbags and a full range of electronic stability and traction systems, plus an electronic differential lock and 'hill hold' control.

The higher grade, dubbed SE Technology, gets bigger alloys, additions to the infotainment package including touch screen controls, DAB radio plus satnav, LED headlights, 18-inch alloys, and front sports seats in alcantara and leather.

And, oh be joyful, there's a real spare wheel. Those of you who have had a puncture and whose car is supplied with a foam inflator kits instead of a spare will know what I mean.

The interior of the X-Perience is a relaxing place to be. Roomy, quiet and comfortable with easy performance will be features familiar to anyone who has driven the hugely popular hatchback, but with the extra versatility of an estate which will add to the appeal for family or business users.

But it also adds the reassurance of a proven four wheel drive system which adds little weight and doesn't sap performance for those times when the going gets tough, whether it's winter weather, a muddy camp site or gymkhana field.

Blues let lead slip away as Cherries fight back

Bournemouth 4 Blues 2
BOURNEMOUTH fought back from two goals down to return to the top of the Championship with a thrilling 4-2 triumph over 10-man Birmingham.

Strikes from Steve Cook, Calum Wilson, Charlie Daniels and a Yann Kermorgant penalty helped Bournemouth equal their club record of 104 goals in a single season.

Birmingham, who had captain Paul Robinson sent off late on, looked to be heading for a surprise win when Clayton Donaldson and David Cotterill struck in three first-half minutes.

Donaldson showed how to finish in the 19th minute, racing in between the centre-back pairing of Cook and Tommy Elphick before calmly lifting the ball over the on-rushing Artur Boruc and into the net.

Cotterill doubled the Blues' lead only three minutes later with another superbly-taken goal.

Cook gave Bournemouth a life-line in the 39th minute by bundling home from close range after keeper Darren Randolph flapped at Matt Ritchie's corner.

The Cherries drew level on the stroke of half-time when Harry Arter split the Birmingham defence with a delightful through-ball for Wilson to round Randolph and tap into an empty net.

Kermorgant completed the comeback from the spot three minutes after the interval following Robinson's clumsy foul on Wilson. And home captain Elphick came within inches of extending the lead with a 58th-minute header against the crossbar. Daniels then added his name to the scoresheet.

Villa put freeze on the price of season tickets

VILLA have announced a freeze on season ticket prices for next season.

The move comes after what chief executive Tom Fox described as a "challenging period" for the club.

Prices will again range between £335 and £615 for the second straight year.

Fox said: "We have decided to freeze season ticket prices as we know it has been a challenging period for the club.

"We value the continued support of our existing season ticket holders and want to encourage new and returning supporters back to Villa Park," he added.

Villa are currently sitting at 16th position in the Premier League table, three points above the relegation zone with six games remaining.

This weekend they travel away to face Spurs.

Club bolsters side with Ellison

HALESOWEN have snapped up Harry Ellison, son of former Kent and England seamer Richard, to bolster their side ahead of the new season.

Ellison joins after talking to Will Barrett, who is skipper of his University side and will also be turning out for Halesowen this year.

A middle order batsman and occasional bowler, Ellison joins from Somerset side Glastonbury who play in the West of England Premier League where he scored over 400 runs last season in 14 knocks at a healthy 30 average.

And he said: "I share a house in Cambridge with Will Barrett and, of course, we play together for the University. We'll travel together to matches and now the weather has improved I can't wait for the season to start, in earnest."

Ellison joins former Brockhampton duo Barrett and Ben Stebbings at Halesowen this season – and Chairman Richard Evans says the club aren't finished yet with new faces.

He said: "We are delighted that Harry has agreed to join us and we look forward to welcoming him and his father to the club in due course.

"It's fair to say though we'll be looking to Harry to do the business with the bat, rather than the ball! "We are still talking to another player and hope to bring that deal to a conclusion in the very near future. Harry's signing, together with that of Ben and Will, are our just reward for the massive effort put in behind the scenes this winter."

The season opens this Sunday, April 12, when the club host Barrow CC who are on a pre-season tour and play in the Cheshire League.

Halesowen's Birmingham League season starts on Saturday April 25 when the first XI travel to Tamworth whilst the second XI host the reverse fixture.

Meanwhile tickets are selling fast for the club's first-ever Darts Exhibition with charismatic former World semi-finalist Wayne 'Hawai 501' Mardle on Wednesday April 29. The evening will also feature a Q&A. Tickets are £10 and available from the club or from any club official.

Benteke hat-trick saves Villa's skin

Villa 3 QPR 3
CHRISTIAN BENTEKE'S hat-trick rescued a crucial point for Villa in a thrilling 3-3 draw with relegation rivals QPR.

The striker levelled to complete his treble with just seven minutes left after QPR looked to have done enough to climb out of the bottom three and leapfrog Villa.

Clint Hill and Charlie Austin had fired Rangers 3-2 ahead after the break following Benteke's first-half double.

He had cancelled out Matt Phillips' opener but the draw did little for either side's survival hopes.

Villa moved three points clear of the Premier League relegation zone while Rangers climbed to third bottom, still two points from safety.

Jack Grealish made his first league start for Villa as the fit-again Ron Vlaar and Tom Cleverley returned along with Leandro Bacuna and Kieran Richardson.

QPR's Eduardo Vargas, out for the season with a knee injury, and Yun Suk-young, sidelined with a head injury, were replaced by Niko Kranjcar and Hill.

Breathless

Villa boss Tim Sherwood had predicted a full-blooded attacking game and Rangers, lifted by their second away win of the season at Albion on Saturday, fulfilled their part in a breathless first half by opening the scoring after seven minutes.

Austin's cross was not cleared and Bobby Zamora picked up the pieces to centre for Phillips to nod in unmarked from six yards.

Yet Villa levelled just 151 seconds later when Fabian Delph played in Benteke and the striker was given too much time to cut in from the left and his shot deflected off Steven Caulker and past Rob Green.

The keeper then gathered Grealish's free-kick as the game reached breakneck speed before the youngster wasted a glorious chance on 16 minutes.

Benteke was set free on the left and when Caulker failed to deal with the cross, Green saved at the feet of Grealish.

But Benteke clawed Villa back again when he curled in a 25-yard free-kick off the post.

It's do or die time for Reanne

Snooker player Reanne Evans is looking to achieve a unique feat in snooker

REANNE EVANS insists her World Championship bid is 'do or die' for women in snooker.

The 29-year-old from Dudley is aiming to be the first woman to qualify for the World Championship in Sheffield this month when she faces former champion Ken Doherty in qualifying.

Evans has won 10 women's world titles and plays Irishman Doherty at Pond's Forge in Sheffield today. And, while her profile is dwarfed by the men's game, Evans knows she must take her chance.

"As much as it's brilliant, you get the added pressure, I'm do or die for the ladies. You have to accept it, that's the way it is," she said. "I hope it all goes in the right direction. "It's going to take time and I'm getting old now, all the wrinkles are showing.

"If I don't get to play (in the main draw), I hope (my attempt to qualify will inspire) the young girls because they need to see a future in the game."

Opponent Doherty won the Crucible title in 1997 but Evans admits she is dreaming of making the main draw, which will require her and all the other 128 entrants to the preliminary draw to win three best-of-19-frame matches.

Yeltz reach a dozen without a victory

Blyth Spartans 2 Halesowen 1
HALESOWEN'S worrying run of games without a win stretched to 12 to send them into the Evo-Stik Premier derby with Stourbridge in poor form.

The Yeltz failed to create many chances against a team who are well within reach of the play-offs.

The first half was a dour affair, with few opportunities for either side to score, though Aaron Lloyd, starting his first game for Halesowen, saw an under-hit shot saved which was one of the few highlights of the first part of the match.

For Blyth, Michael Richardson was called into action and produced a save from a Sam Pearson shot on goal.

Pearson also produced an excellent stop from Dan Maguire as he continued to impress in the first period.

Maguire went close again early in the second half when he collected a loose ball midway inside the Yeltz half and burst forward but fired past Pearson's far post.

Spartans began to dictate play and took the lead on the hour when Maguire was brought down in the area by Curtis Tilt and Stephen Turnbull converted the penalty.

Richardson hit the top of the crossbar with 20 minutes remaining but on 76 minutes he made no mistake when set up by Maguire who did the hard work in the build up.

Yseden Christie did bring some relief for the Yeltz when he got Halesowen's consolation late on with a brilliantly curling free-kick after Danny Bragoli had been fouled.

Red card was harsh, says Mulumbu

ALBION midfielder Youssef Mulumbu claims his red card for elbowing QPR captain Joey Barton was harsh and insists: "I never meant to hurt anyone".

Mulumbu took to Twitter to apologise to his team-mates yesterday after he was dismissed just 11 minutes after joining the game as a substitute.

"I think it's harsh but that's how it is," said Mulumbu, who received support from Barton after the game.

"I don't know if we'll appeal. I will speak with the club but when you look at the video it's very harsh.

"I didn't make any movement to hurt anybody so we will speak with the coach and the club and see what is the best way to sort this out."

Mulumbu received support from Barton, who cleared the defender of any suggestion of a deliberate elbow.

Late Archer goal shares the points

Tivdale 1 Sutton Coldfield Tn 1
THE game started at an electric pace as both sides looked for a result.
Sutton needing to keep their play-off chances alive and Tivdale determined to extend their unbeaten league run.
It was Tivdale with the first chance on five minutes when after a neat move down the left Karl Edwards saw his shot deflected for a corner.

Eight minutes later Mitchell Botfield tried an effort that Sutton keeper Lee Evans collected comfortably.
Sutton broke the deadlock on 45 minutes when Nadat causing a complete nuisance of himself held off Tivdale skipper Richard Huckfield and as he turned and headed for goal, drew a foul from Huckfield and referee Mr Cheosiaua pointed straight to the spot and Richards made no mistake.

The second half started with both teams seeing plenty of the ball but neither team threatening the opposition goal and apart from dealing with the odd cross both the Evans keepers were literally spectators.
On 56 minutes again Tivdale had a great chance to get on the score sheet. Leigh Downing was through on goal but could not get the ball from between his feet and failed to get his shot off.

The last 15 minutes saw Tivdale pile on the pressure in an attempt to get the equaliser and after some great work down the right from Penny his cross to the back post was headed back across goal by David Bellis to Archer but his header went straight into Lee Evan's arms.
The game by now was moving into injury time when another cross from Tivdale's right found Archer who beat Lee Evans with an absolute scorcher.

Foster's double penalty spot scores win it for Tivdale

Tivdale 2 Lincoln Utd 0
TWO penalties by Zach Foster gave Tivdale an Evo-Stik North Division One South double over play-off contenders Lincoln United.
Tivdale started the stronger on a very heavy pitch at The Beeches and were ahead after just two minutes.
Jordan Archer collected the ball on the left, raced into the Lincoln area leaving two defenders trailing and was upended by United's Matthew Cotton.
Foster stepped up to place the spot-kick wide of keeper Robert Peet's right hand.
Lincoln reacted well and Ryan Winwood had to block a powerful effort by Cotton before striker Scott Ruthven brought down a lofted ball and struck the outside of a post.
Tivdale doubled their lead on 38 minutes. Chris Field played a superb through ball to Archer who again outpaced his markers and managed to get his toe to the ball ahead of the onrushing Peet.
Once again the referee pointed to the spot and again Foster scored, this time sending his spot-kick to Peet's left.

Harris relishes shot at third title

LUKE Harris, one of the Cradley newcomers, is relishing the prospect of pushing for a third successive league title for the club.
Harris, who commutes from his West London base for Heathens matches at Perry Barr, has found life tough in the early stages of the season.
But he insists he wants to play his part and is looking for plenty of points when they next line up against Eastbourne on Wednesday April 22.
He said: "I'm looking forward to the challenge of trying to retain the title for Cradley."
"Obviously they have done a great job to win the league the last two years, so we really want to try and make it three in a row. "It looks tough this year and we know it won't be easy, but we have some great riders in the team and we are aiming to do it again."

Speedway

"Hopefully I can have a good year and play my part to help make sure Cradley are up there challenging for the title."
"I'm honoured to be riding for Cradley because it's such a big club and the fans are amazing. I'm looking forward to the season."
"Experience is obviously key in speedway, and I think the fact I'm coming into my second season in the National League should help."

"There are quite a few riders who haven't got any experience at all at this level this year, so the fact I know what to expect and know what it's about a little bit should help."
"I'm still young and still need advice and guidance myself, but I've already learnt a lot riding for Kent and with the few guest bookings I did last year."
Heathens skipper Max Clegg will take his place in the British Under 21 Final at Coventry next Tuesday, April 14.

Tipton fight back to grab the victory

Alvechurch 2 Tipton Town 4
TIPTON Town sprung a big surprise by fighting back from a goal down to claim victory at mid-table Alvechurch in the Midlands Premier.
Town, bottom of the table, fell behind after just 12 minutes when Connor Deedes' smart header beat keeper Jack Hayfield.
Dimitri Dunkley then went close for the home side, but the visitors promptly turned the game around.
They were level on 18 minutes when Mark Ganderton worked the ball to the fleet-footed Gurjit Singh who rode two tackles before crashing his shot in off the bar.
The Lye Meadow club, several years ago, were famed for helping such luminaries as Arsenal's, Alan Smith and Wolves' David Kelly on their road to stardom with Tipton Town's player of prominence, Steve Bull, of course so there was some common ground between the two sides which invited comment before kick-off.
Tipton, solid at the back where Lucan Spittle was imperious, were by now playing with much more belief than they have generally shown in this wretched season.

They went ahead in the first minute of the second half when the effervescent Singh fired in a low ball from the right edge of the penalty area which Sean Pugh gleefully stabbed home.
Tipton then withstood a spell of home pressure before Adam Hill made it 3-1. Home skipper Michael McGrath reduced the arrears in the 78th minute, but just three minutes later Singh clinched the win by waltzing through and firing past Edwards.
The second half began with a bang.

Premier place is Jackett's focus

KENNY Jackett insists Wolves can be Premier League regulars and urges Molineux to roar his team towards the play-offs.
Jackett believes Wolves can become an established top-flight club if they force their way into the Championship play-offs and win promotion this season.
And he has challenged his side to use the Molineux support to their advantage.
He said: "It is a fantastic club which has the potential to be in the Premier League - but that doesn't make it a given that you get in there because you have to earn it in football."
"But Wolves have Premier League potential."

Halesowen 2 Stourbridge 0 A bumper Bank Holiday crowd of 1,748 watched Halesowen claim a deserved victory in a keenly-contested local derby.

Both mid-table sides entered the game - dubbed the No.9 derby - in indifferent form but it was Halesowen who took the bragging rights with their greater desire and team spirit in front of their best home attendance since 1991.
The Yeltz started on the front foot as a first minute throw-in from Tom Tonks was scrambled clear and an Aaron Griffiths corner was headed away strongly by Stourbridge captain Leon Broadhurst just seconds later.
As Halesowen heaped on the pressure, Ben Haseley skipped past both Broadhurst and Chris Knight and was only eventually halted by Leon Miles.

Clawed

Kris Green's seventh minute goal-bound header was then clawed away by Glassboys goalkeeper Dean Coleman from another huge Tom Tonks throw-in from the right.
Two further trademark long throw-ins from Tonks earned Halesowen their fourth corner with only 16 minutes on the clock.
After the match moved into a quieter spell, a 21st-minute shot from former Halesowen player Chris Lait was kept out of the net by home goalkeeper Matt Sargeant.
Drew Canavan struck an inviting 34th minute free-kick from the edge of the penalty area straight at the home defensive wall after Aaron Forde was penalised for fouling Benbow.
Coleman then rushed out of the Stourbridge goal to collect from Haseley and Forde's ball across the Stourbridge area was cut out.
The Yeltz continued to look full value for their half-time lead as Brian Smikle cleared two further corners, an Iyseden Christie free-kick was deflected away and Forde set up Charlton to send a 45th minute half volley wide.
Halesowen finally took a hard-earned lead after 25 minutes as Curtis Tilt broke away, only to be fouled by Luke Connolly and home captain Joe Hull powered home a close range header from Tonks' resulting free-kick.

Ben Haseley was then denied and Brian Smikle cleared two corners as the Yeltz continued to look full value for their half-time lead and were looking to consolidate their single goal.
Iyseden Christie doubled Halesowen's advantage from the penalty spot just five minutes into the second half.
Christie's legs were clipped by Chris Knight and he was brought down as he latched on to Haseley's square ball which was sent across the penalty area.

The Glassboys could not find any way back into the game against the determined hosts, although Lait fired over the bar after 65 minutes as the Yeltz coasted to their first victory in 13 games.
